received of the economic sauctions means the memplearance of the months has economically divided the possipied districts from the rest of Germany. The difficulties of removal were explained in cables despatched on September 16 and 19. British and French differences on the subject of the method of checking Germany's issue of licences in order to prevent discrimination against Aliad products were settled? a week ago and Allied and German experts now meet to determine how the control of licences can be carried out by the lifer Allied Communion.

[The cable dated September 16 said : "Of the williad that Garmany. has not fulfilled; her obligations the French Foreign to ce amornees the continuance of the contenic sanctions which the Supremi Council decided should be removed on September 15, subject to Sermeny meeting certain obligations. A Berlin semi obiciel message deslares that Germany has pare a milliard gold marks and also agreed in principle to the exection of an Inter-Allied organisation with the view to preventing unfair discrimination regarding import and export licences, thus meeting the thing demands. The whele trouble is due to the competence of this organisation, which France maintains should have full authority to dictate our Germany were also present Mesara D. G. Chun Tong, and Chun King Paris and Coblenz." The cable dated Sept. 19 said: It is anthoritatively stated and there seems every reason to believe, that the German Government intends loyally to accept the decision of the Supreme Council to establish the inter-Allied organisation mentioned on Sept. 16. It is at present undecided whether the organisation is merely to watch the issue of licences and to report any unfair discrimination towards the Allies, or shall be fully empewered to veto licences. British circles favour the farmer course. It is hoped that the question will shortly be settled and the economic sanctions.

COAST SHIPPING. CONTRACT OF THE RESERVE

INCREASING COMPETITION

THE DOLLING OF THE DOLLINE STRANSHIP CO., LTD.

Allusion to the general shipping state of the depressed state of the Farter market, increasing competition on the Coast, and unsettled political conditions in China was made by the Chairman of the Douglas Steamship Co., Ltd., at the 31th ordinary general meeting of the company held at noon to-day.

Mr. H. O. White presided, and there Yue, shareholders.

The Secretary having read the notice convening the meeting, the Chairman said :- Gentlemen .- The report and accounts having been in your hands for some time. I will with your permission take them and the report of the auditors' as read.

I regret that we are not able to lay before you a more favourable state. ment, but our trade has suffered in common with the general and universal collapse in shipping businesses: and the depressed state of the Eastern charter market has tended to increase the rumber of steamers competing on the Court with the regular lines while the sudden and sensational increase of $5. per ton in the price of havid first referred to in the seport was repossible for a heavy addition to the running expenses of the of eoel. But for this additional exmenes, the result of the year's working would have made a much better showing. The "Hailoong" has undergone extensive alterations to her boders and furnaces during the year, which have resulted in a very marked reduction in her coal consumption. While China's still in such an unsettled political condition or until general trade improves, it is difficult to regard prospects for the future with anything approaching optimism, but it may interest you to know that the steamers engaged on our regular. line are exching their last proportion of the freight that is offering and that there is a probability of an appreciable curtainent of working expenses dur-mg the year. I trust the proposed distribution of profits and the transfer of a sum from the Reserve Fund to cover the cost of special repairs that do not rightly come under the heading of ordinary upkeep will meet with your approval and after the adoption of the report and secounts has been proposed and seconded, I shall be pleased to answer any questions that shareholders may wish to ask. I propose that the report and accounts as presented be

Mr. H. R. B. Haucock, who secondthe motion, said that with reerence to the Chairman's remarks recarding the operation of the Company's steamers during the past year, considering the world-wide depression in shipping he did not think they should be unduly personistic, for so long as they could hold their own in abnormal times they could confidently look forward to a return of more

The motion was then put to the meeting and carried ananimously.

Mr. Chan Tong proposed that M-serk D. G. M. Bernard, W. E. Clarke and A. O. Lang be re elected as members of the consulting committee for the enming year.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Chan King yoe and carried magin Mr. Hancock proposed that Messts.

FISH THAT-BLUSH

That a fish can blush seems a ridiculous assertion, but it is nevertheless true.

A number of Indian specimenssuffering from the name of Barbus pyrrhopterus-obliged me writes correspondent in the Daily Chronicle of August 2, by doing so, the other day, at the establishment of Mr. B. T. Child, naturalist, of Pentonville-road King's-cross; where they had just arrived.

It was not because of bashfulness, anger or shame, but merely excitement aroused by the introduction of some wriggling bloodworms into their

Normally the little fish, which do not exceed three inches and are somewhat like tiny bream in shape, are olive green on the back, with lustrous silvery sides.

Immediately the food was given them, however, first one and then another assumed a ruddy hue, until the whole shoal glowed like so many ruby lamps.

The male of a pretty two-inch banded species, known as Haplochilus chaperi, from W. Africa also gave an exhibition of his powers in this direction, though these were restricted to his nose. When meal-time comes round, this becomes as radiantly ruddy as that of any old-time comedian.

The "Notre Dame d'Affrique" was promptly manageved round to a position: between the mine and the "Presidente Wilson," says the Central News, and the latter was obliged to deviate from her course. The passengers were not aware of the presence of danger until they were some miles out at sea.

A small party from the coastal steamer succeeded later in securing the mine, and the port authorities were communicated with.

The sole sufficing recommendation of the plain from which the vast mass of Verscilles now rises was that it possessed no natural charms and no natural conveniences. There, as the French historian remarked, "he created round himself a little universe in which he was the one necessary being, and almost the only being who was mal." Even water was - lacking, and only after much difficulty and one colossal failure could his engineers provide a supply. But as everyone who has assisted on a Sunday afternoon at the display of the Versailles waterworks will handsomely admit, there was plenty of it in the end. Among the innumerable pools, lakes, and canals which gleam amid the geometrical gardening is one called the Bassin des Pages, in which the boys of the Court of Le Roi Soleil were taught to swim. It is still a swimming bath, open slike to civilians and the soldiers of the neighbouring barracks. More so, indeed, for there were eight. It is understood-that minor tactics, as taught in the Franch army, do not at present include any recipe for the treatment of eight crocodiles by a platoon in puris naturalibus. The platoon was therefore withdrawn from what we may be allowed to call its dangerously ex posed position. The problem was then referred to the intelligence department. It could not be supposed, marvellous as were the creative efforts of Louis XIV., and strange as some of the things in the gardens

To those of us who were definitely ranged where these are now putting themselves, it is of interest to watch the phenomena of conversion, pleasant to note the zeal with which they march in the (to them) new direction. and amusing to listen to their reasons and explanations. We may have been weary of falseness for years, yet will it not bore us to hear the frew recruits denouncing it. This author defines an optimist as any one who believes there is a means of avoiding further catastrophes like the Great War, which, he informs us, "was caused by the Victorians" intellectual dishonesty, their refusal to clear their minds of cant, to call greed, callousness, trickery by their proper names; for with these faults they infected other ruling classes and so the reign of devilry began."

And now he wants to ascertain how many others have grasped that agesold truth, he wants them to get together in every land, and to let their light shine before men. Alas! He will find a plenty of men who know that, who know of the hole in the carpet, but who, because they have not yet tripped over it, are not like him, full of a lively awareness and consciousness of it. These he will find out to be his most invincible opponents, for inertia is stronger than malice. After all, they may tell him. if he shouts loud enough at them to compel an answer, our business is to get downstairs, not to mend staircarpets. Then will he bow his head. as some of us have done before him. and watch th in running down stairs, for a sesson quite safely, until the edge of the hole curls up again and catches their feet. Then he will be where we were before his enlightenment, and some of the stumblers will be where he is now. "You must believe in God in spite of what the clergy tell you," said Jowett of Balliol, Mr. Hamilton Fyfe seems to have acquired, at the age of fifty, and after a World War, a belief in spite-of the fact that one Jesus lived and died for it nearly two thousand years ago. We bid him welcome most heartily, but we do so without the bubbling optimism that possesses him. If it needs such a serious operation to cure a man of his intellectual calibre, what heroic treatment must be required to convert the inert unthinking mass, not merely of those unregenerates of whom "Patriot" is a type, but of the far larger mob that is too busy to listen to warn ngs about holes in carpets. "Holes in carpets?" th y repeat. "Pooh! Utopian, impractical crank-chatt r." Laughing gayly, they run on down, with the smooth certitude of habit

A law sub-committee had made representations to the Government on various points; had drafted a broader section to take the place of the one dealing with cruelty to animals in local legislation; it had asked for bylaws to regulate the carriage of chickens and pigs in crates, and the transport of injured cattle. Recommendations with regard to the Wild

LONDONERS TO FIGHT FOR SPAIN

Volunteers for the Spanish Foreign ogion are being enrolled at the panish Consulate in Biocombury Square. They must be ex-ective step. The pay offered is only about four and a half posetas (about Sa. 4d.) a day, with £25 for a five year's en-

There has been great secreey, but the "Star" seems to have found out all about it. The Legion is being sent to serve in Morocco, and a Spanish battleship has been sent over from Spain to take the English volunteers. She is now at Southampton. Men who are having arrived from the above Ports, being taken are between the Consignee of Camp he her are notified ages of 18 and 40. They are being that all goods are landed at their provided with uniform and equip risk into the montage of the Hengkung beautious Godows of the Hengkung ment. They are going first to the Legion headquarters in Spain, there to be accepted or rejected. If the latter their fares will be paid back to England. The offer has been open October, 1921, will be abject to rent. The chance has attractions for unemployed ex-service men. It is said that the applicants are not asked for characters, but only whether they are fit and can fight.

This revelation is going to rouse a good deal of attention. There is, of course, the precedent of the French Foreign Legion, which has always included Englishmen and which has by seen much service in North Africa. In 18th Oct. | MARRELLES, LORDON & Awerp. 11th Nov. MARSETTES, LONDON & A'werp. early Victorian times a British Legion was raised to fight in the Spanish Civil War.

BANNED M'RHIAGE

EXPERTS DISPUTE VALIDITY OF FOREIGN DIVORCE.

When a couple arrived at a London register office to be married, they were told that the Registrar-General had forbidden the marriage.

The bride-to-be, a beautiful woman of foreign origin, some years ago divorced her husband. The registraexplained that the ban was placed on the wedding on the ground that the foreign divorce proceedings did not constitute a divorce in England

Among those who were to have witnessed the marriage was a barrister who told the registrar that the divorce was quite in order. registrar was not satisfied and opinion of a leading divorce lawyer was sought. The party waited in the registrar's office until he arrived. examined the papers and told the Cords are to be left in the Godowns, registrar that they were in order and where they will be examined on the that the parties could be married. 5th prox at 10 a.m.

The registrar expressed his regret but stated that in the absence of fresh orders the marriage could not be performed. The bride-to-be left the office

MARINE ENGINEERING.

It is refreshing to think that Britain leads the world in marine engineering, and especially in the application of the Michell system-a system which has now been | employed in British ships for some time, says the Journal of Commerce. This thought is prompted by the fact that the latest French liner, "Paris" is provided with an adjusting block! having eighteen collars. It is years, since English builders abandoned this type for the simple single-collar adjusting block which has rendered the turbine "dummy cylinder" obsolete, thus shortening the turbine and increasing its efficiency. The Germans, it would seem, are also, far behind us in the application of this system, since an ex-en my liner; which has recently failed to attain more than half speed is to be converted to the Michell system. indication of the difficulties which had to be overcome in the early days of the system, when a lot of "pioneering" was necessary, is afforded by the following account of the first unit sent out to Canada. It formed part of the steam turbine equipment for an electric power plant. Some years ago a noted English firm of steam turbine manufacturers sent out to a remote NEW SERVICE TO INDIA, AND SUEZ.

part of Canada an electric power plant. The erector noticed when he usembled the parts that the usual adjusting block for taking up end-thrust was missing. As time was pressing, he ordered what he thought was required from the neurest engineering works in Vancouver, and advised his firm accordingly, observing that there was a flange and some loose bits which apparently fitted on the end of the turbine spindle-what were they for? - His firm immediately cabled their erector to cancel his order to Vancouver, and to fit the "flange and loose bits," which was in fact the thrust block. The firm referred to were one of the first to appreciate the advantages of the Michell thrust and fit it to steam turbines long before it was adopted for marine purposes. The innovation was so revolu-
